Delon Armitage Rugby

Club: London Irish

D.O.B: 15.12.83

Delon started at the college in 2002 to study a GNVQ in Leisure and Tourism and was also part of the college's Rugby Team.

Delon started playing rugby at the age of 8 for Richmond RFC, he then moved to France where he represented France U16's. When he returned to England he played for the England U19's. From there he progressed to the U21 squad and played in the 2005 IRB World Sevens tournament.

Last season saw Delon make the step up to England 'A' with his inclusion in the England Saxons Summer tour to Canada to participate in the Churchill Cup. He has since become a regular for Martin Johnson's England team. Delon is the first native West Indian to play rugby union for England.
